Student Loan Consolidation Center Raises Funds at NASFAA for 2 Minneapolis Schools

(San Diego, CA) At this year's NASFAA Conference in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Student Loan Consolidation Center (SLCC) representatives are doing more than meeting members of the financial aid community. The company is raising funds for the NASFAA Book & Video Drive by donating $10 every time a financial aid administrator stops by and answers two simple survey questions at the company's booth (#234 & #236).

"With this year's NASFAA conference theme of 'Helping Students Make It After All,' SLCC is proud to raise funds for these two Minneapolis schools in need," said Ryan Katz, CEO and Founder of SLCC. This is the first year SLCC has attended the national NASFAA conference.

The recipient schools -- Earle Brown Elementary School (Twin Cities metro area, grades K-6) and St. James Armstrong Middle School (rural southern Minnesota, grades 4-7) -- were selected by the NASFAA's Diversity and Multicultural Issues (DMCI) Committee.

Student Loan Consolidation Center is the 5th largest holder of Federal Consolidation Loans with over 100,000 customers nationwide, and provides Federal PLUS and Stafford Loans for parents, graduate and undergraduate students to achieve their educational goals.
